

BIOGRAPHY

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

CAPTAIN RYAN A. WALLACE

Captain Ryan A. Wallace is the Systems and Communications Assistant Director of Operations at the 805th Combat Training Squadron located at Nellis AFB, Nevada. He leads the Systems and Communications Directorate consisting of 70 Airmen, civilians and contractors providing integration of software development, command and control systems, and networking for the tactical and operational levels of war. His team enables instrumentation capabilities for the Shadow Operations Center-Nellis, which is the U.S. Air Force's (USAF) warfighter-centric focal point for the Joint Staff's Joint All-Domain Command and Control and the USAF's Advanced Battle Management System experimentation, and sustainment of emerging concepts, applications, and architecture.

Capt Wallace is from Mc Ewen, Tennessee and entered the Air Force in May 2009. He began his career as an enlisted Health Services Management apprentice. Capt Wallace earned his commission through Officer Training School in March 2017. His previous assignments include serving as Section Commander and Assistant Operations Flight Commander at Peterson AFB along with assignments in Nevada and Biloxi, MS. Capt Wallace has also deployed in support of Operation Inherent Resolve at Camp Arifjan, Kuwait and Union III, Baghdad, Iraq.
